

The EVMS is a system of systems involving the integration of people, processes and technologies.

When a high degree of technology integration is achieved, there is less impact on the people and processes the EVMS relies upon. Charter works with the client to identify efficiencies to be gained by building interfaces and integrations between various technologies and tools used to support program planning and execution. When needed, Charter also provides development and implementation support to accomplish the planned integrations.