

Work Instructions for specific tools and processes are often needed to ensure that tools and processes are implemented consistently across the company and that their use complies with specific company policies and procedures or external governance such as the ANSI/EIA-748 EVMS standard. Charter Performance develops, or works with their client to develop, detailed work instructions.